

I'm Zachary,

A solo developer who is motivated to learn new skills.

What I Develop

Websites

Terminal Applications

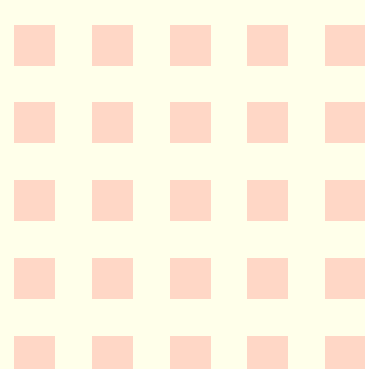

Video Games

About

I love solving problems and learning new things. For me, programming satisfies this. More specifically, I like learning new languages and tools to grow my skills and create new

I keep up to date with website designs, terminal applications, and video games. By doing this I find areas of improvement for my own work.

When there is a skill that I would like to learn or improve, I begin a project to learn and practice the skill. This creates content that I can reference and remember.

Projects

Totally Not a bunch of cats

A website made for my game design team. This was a enriching experience as learned new skills.

More →

Totally Not a bunch of cats

A website made for my game design team. This was a enriching experience as learned new skills.

More →

Totally Not a bunch of cats

A website made for my game design team. This was a enriching experience as learned new skills.

More →

Totally Not a bunch of cats

A website made for my game design team. This was a enriching experience as learned new skills.

More →

Totally Not a bunch of cats

A website made for my game design team. This was a enriching experience as learned new skills.

More →

Totally Not a bunch of cats

A website made for my game design team. This was a enriching experience as learned new skills.

More →

View All →

Contact

Full Name

Email

Message

